

Making our city more walkable

Creating a strategy to grow walking in Ashland

Friday & Saturday, March 8-9

Ashland Public Transportation Center, 99 15th Street

Want to help make Ashland a better place to walk? Join us for a free 1.5 day workshop and learn about easy and low-cost tools for changing neighborhoods into safe and attractive places for people to walk to work, school or play. In this meeting we aim to:

- Share innovative and effective tools and identify techniques and strategies to help the partners, advocates and others in the Ashland community implement projects and campaigns that further walkability;
- Explore specific walking strategies that our community can more immediately embrace to take responsibility for overall improved public health, wellness, transportation, economic development and livability of the region;
- Strengthen the collaboration among organizations and government by engaging partners;
- Utilize national and local experts to support our work; and
- Gather information to provide the community with an action plan and strategy that increases walking projects and policies in Ashland

Come join the discussion!

9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Friday, March 8

8 a.m. - Noon Saturday, March 9

Registration is required and can be completed online at <http://tinyurl.com/a7q6gpy>

For more information:

Call Laura Patrick at (606) 324-1544

or via email to laura.patrick@khf.kdhs.us

Supported by:

